

Diagrams for Biology Learning

There are Generally Two Types of Diagrams in Biology Textbooks ...

Static Diagrams: Shows (mostly) Static (non-moving) parts:

- Example: Structure of an animal cell (mostly static but has parts engaged in biological processes ...)

Moving Diagrams: A “System” Visual Objects with Moving Parts:

- Example: Human Nerve Synapse ...

